AGAIN.The County Supervisors have passed a resolution inviting the City Trustees to send a committee to confer with a committee from the Board of Supervisors to arrive at some plan for improving the drainage canal and abating its present offensive character.So far as conference is concerned there is nothing objectionable in that. But any idea of mulling that conference to the scheme of patching up and cleaning out the drainage canal and leaving it upon its present levels will be absurd and downright stupidity. There is not an owner of private property in the State with so little sense, if he had such a ditch upon his land, as to attempt to "improve it." He would abate the nuisance at once, and search out some other agency for disposing of the sewerage and the drainage waters of his land.Why should municipalities be less wise than individuals? The situation is a simple one. We have a drainage canal twenty-one miles long, not cut through to tide-water, however, at the farther end, the exit of which, if it were cut through, would be at mean tide higher than the point at which we empty the city's drainage into it. It cannot be sunk deeper, for its line is through the lowest possible levels of the bottom and swamp lands.Practically, then, the effort to make the canal carry the drainage is to attempt to make water run up hill. A new scheme, however, is to "cover part of the canal," as if that would prevent it giving off foul vapors and poisonous gases, or increase its carrying capacity. To cover it would be an excellent scheme for throwing plenty of city and county money into the canal, but it would not serve as either a deodorizer or to give the stagnant waters motion seaward.There are but two plans in the present worthy of any consideration whatever, relating to the discharge of drainage and sewerage. One is to build a flume from Y street to tide-water—an open, elevated flume or any other kind that will give the fluids rapid motion toward tide-water.
This motion in itself is a powerful purifying agency, as it reduces oxidation.This plan, it can be proven, will cost less than to cover or attempt to dig out the canal, this, including in the estimate the cost of lifting pumps. The city has been offered already pumping machinery sufficient to lift the drainage to a new elevation, for the saving in the cost of the fuel required for any other lifting power.
However, there are a score of pumps equal to the task.The second plan is to place pumps of sufficient capacity at the junction of Front and Y streets, and lift the drainage through or over the levee into the river.
This plan is, of course, the most economic, and even if tried and abandoned, very little cost will be risked, since the machinery will remain for use thereafter in other discharge of the sewerage and drainage.The people should take hold of this matter and advise their officials as to the best policy to be pursued. Conscientious officials will be glad to have the people express themselves upon the subject.The day will come when we will abandon the cesspools of the city, draw the solid waste by pneumatic power to a common exit and there reduce it by heat, evaporating the moisture and chemically purifying the liquids. But that will be years hence. The question is what to do now, and we challenge successful contradiction of the proposition that the only thing that can be done is to lift the drainage to a new level of departure. This can be accomplished. One-half the money we have spent upon the canal in ten years and upon ineffectual pumping at Eighth and Y streets would have given us the costlier of the two systems we have outlined. We are at present acting in the most unconomic manner possible. Let it be hoped that we will not by patch-work upon a canal that is wrong end up make the whole business idiotic.EXTRAVAGANT EXPECTATIONS.
From an interview with M. H. De Young, published in the New York Tribune, it is becoming even more apparent that California will not be permitted to make a separate exhibition of its products at the Columbian Exhibition in Chicago. It is also now a settled fact that the fair is to be located at two places. We have before us a map of Chicago, published in that city, and immediately opposite the lake-front area, where the art buildings, the music buildings, the electrical display and the Egyptian and Arabian villages are to be placed, is the advertisement, "Site of the World's Columbian Exhibition." There is not a word about Young's Park on the subject. Mr. De Young says that JacksonPark is about seven miles from the lakefront site, but the Illinois Central Railroad takes people out there in a very few minutes. Responding to an interview, Mr.
De Young says: "California is taking great interest in the fair. The State Legislature, at its next session, will probably appropriate $750,000 for the State's part in the display."Now the interest which California has taken in this matter up to this time was upon the theory that it would be enabled, in a building erected by itself, to make a display of its entire products. When it comes to be known that the display of California is to be separated into twelve parts and distributed, the interest which the people of this State have taken will be measurably if not wholly impaired. The State Legislature will not appropriate $750,000 for any such display. To do so would be to commit an act of "boodism."The Republican party, victorious in the last campaign, achieved that victory by a distinct pledge to the people of the State that the rate of State taxation should not, under its administration, exceed 50 cents on the dollar. It will make an exceeding bad beginning if it appropriates $750,000 for subsidizing the products of California in a wilderness of competition.
The people who will have prospectively the pleasure of discharging this three-quarters of a million will find it much easier to blow about it than obtain it.
There is a commendable State patriotism which seeks to avail itself of every opportunity for extending a knowledge of the vast resources of this State.There are people to say, whenever a foolish and extravagant thing is proposed, that objection may hurt the State. There is at the same time a strong element of common sense which is not in the least afraid of being charged with unpatriotic sentiment by opposing a silly expenditure of money. And the expenditure of $750,- 000 of the State's money to make a display, divided into twelve departments, will be an incubity of which this State will not be guilty. The Executive Committee of the State World's Fair Association have decided to ask for an appropriation of $900,000. The committee having in charge the drafting of the bills reported in favor of $250,000. After thorough consideration of the matter, $900,000 was agreed upon as a judicious sum. That amount is ample for all the legiti-mate purposes any commission can have in the premises. Our confidence in the honesty of the incoming administration leads to the prediction that $750,000 can not be purloined from the Treasury under any pretext of advertising the resources of the State.The copyright bill, amended, has passed the House. It is not just what was wanted by the friends of international copyright, but it is a long step in advance, and we hail the passage of the measure through the House as indicative of awakening generally to the merits of one phase of the reciprocity policy. For copyright, as now indorsed by the lower House of Congress, is reciprocity. It is our proposal to foreign nations to treat their authors and publishers precisely as ours are treated in the countries addressed.
That much has been gained by the step taken is certainly true, and that it will lead on to larger and better steps in the near future is not to be doubted. The American author will now be able to prevent, in most part, piracy of his books in any country that has agreed with us upon the matter, and to whose authors we promise the protection of their property rights, against the literary pirates of the United States.There is no accounting for tastes. On the 27th of November Miss Rowley, a teacher in a New York Sunday-school, and aged 45, married one of her Chinese pupils, Wong Sing, aged 42. As the bridegroom can speak but a very few words of English, it must be assumed that they were called from the vocabulary of love.
Possibly Miss Rowley thought that at her age a Chinaman was better than no man at all. It was an excellent match, for whenever a white woman chooses a Chinaman for her husband he is precisely the kind of a spouse she should have.In a sermon on dancing, delivered the other night in San Jose by a local clergyman, the reverend gentleman denounced dancing as the worst of sins and a foe to godliness, and asked if anybody knew a dancer to be a good Christian? It is possible that Rev. Mr. Garrett can get an opinion on that subject from General Miles about this time if the preacher had any reference to or includes the "Ghost Dancers."A LOST ADDRESS.
A Trinidad Lady Writes to San Francisco for It.Mrs. Harriet McNamara of 319 State Street, Trinidad, Colorado, while visiting in St.
Louis last summer, did not suffer with her usual sick headaches and indigestion. But upon her return to Trinidad her old troubles came upon her. It was not the St.
Louis climate that did so much for her.
The secret is told in the following letter, received by Thomas Price & Son, the well-known assayers of 524 Sacramento Street, San Francisco. Mrs. McNamara writes:"Three months since I was visiting in St. Louis, and obtained two bottles of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. It was of great relief to me in my headaches and indigestion.
Since my return to my home in Trinidad I feel the need of it, and as I have lost the address I write to you to ask if you will not kindly forward this letter to the proper address in San Francisco, and have me sent a few more bottles of this valuable Vegetable Sarsaparilla."People having used Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla once send hundreds of letters to get it again, as in the above instance.Good Advice to Carpenters.
W. J. Montgomery of Ogdensburg, New York, writes to his brothers of the square and compass:"My advice to all carpenters is to wear a couple of Alcock's Plasters on the small of the back. I find that they give me double power and energy to accomplish my work as well as proving shields against colds and pulmonary difficulties. These plasters appear to fill the body with nervous energy and power, and they seem to double my natural strength. I am a carpenter by trade, and know how often my brother workmen and I suffer from imprudently throwing our arms off and going to work in a cold shop. We forget how little protection the back part of the vest affords to the lungs. By placing an Alcock's Plaster under each shoulder blade all trouble of this kind will be avoided, as I know by experience. If you do get caught with a cold or a bad cough or rheumatic pains, an Alcock's Plaster gives instant relief."In 1890 16,000,000 dozen eggs were imported.

Ball-Players Who are Said to Have Wanted the Earth.Last evening's Post had the following concerning the latest baseball rumors from this city:"Ball-players as a rule do not bear a reputation for being grateful for favors extended to them, but it is rather difficult to believe the latest stories that come from Sacramento. During the season Manager Enright entered into an agreement with his men whereby they were to receive an increase of 10 per cent. in their stated salaries every month, providing that they won a certain number of games in each month. This agreement was carried out, and Enright also voluntarily increased the salaries of a number of his players. The contracts of the men expired November 24th, and according to reports, some of them demanded $100 per game from Enright for all league or the games played after their contracts had terminated. In this story be true, Mr. Enright is placed in a different position in the matter of playing off the tie with the San Francisco team."
